FROM THE ADMINISTRATOR

Barney Crawford, Executive Director

As 2026 draws to a close, we are grateful for what has been a wonderful year at Fair Haven. We have welcomed several new young people to our campus and are looking forward to many exciting activities and celebrations as the year comes to an end.

I have been blessed to serve at Fair Haven for many years and have watched countless young people come through our doors. Our hope for each child is that they leave here with a positive understanding of what a loving, stable home can be. Every day, we strive to model Christian family life and provide the care, guidance, and support they need to thrive.

We are also thankful to report that this year's annual benefit auction raised more than $31,000. Lord willing, these funds will cover our heating fuel expenses throughout the coming year, assuming we do not experience an unusually severe winter. We are deeply grateful to everyone who contributed their time, talents, donations, and support to make this event such a success.

In addition, several church groups dedicated countless hours to serving on our campus this year. From beautification projects to helping meet practical needs around Fair Haven, their efforts have made a tremendous difference. We cannot thank these volunteers enough for their generosity and willingness to serve.

REMEMBERING FAIR HAVEN IN YOUR LEGACY

By Brian York

Over the years, Fair Haven has experienced both seasons of abundance and seasons of uncertainty. There have been times when resources were plentiful, and there have been times when we wondered how we would make it to the next payroll. Through faith, prayer, and God's provision, we have continued moving forward.

As of 2026, we are thankful to be in a position where our bills are paid, and we have been able to set aside enough resources to begin tackling a few long-awaited projects. This stability has only been possible because of our faithful monthly supporters and several generous individuals who chose to remember Fair Haven in their estate planning.

I remember driving through a Jewish neighborhood in Chicago years ago and noticing signs in many yards encouraging people to leave a percentage of their estate to their temple. Through those planned gifts, the temple was able to ensure its financial stability. In much the same way, Fair Haven has weathered many difficult financial seasons because caring individuals included us in their estate plans. Sometimes we received a small portion of an estate, while at other times we were entrusted with the entire estate. When those gifts exceeded our immediate needs, we were able to save the surplus to help sustain us through future lean years. Those reserves have proven invaluable when challenging times returned.

Today, you can help ensure that Fair Haven continues serving children for generations to come by remembering us in your estate planning.

Wills and Estates

Your estate consists of everything you own at the time of your passing, including property, possessions, financial accounts, and other assets. Missouri law provides a process for distributing an estate, but creating a Last Will and Testament can make that process much clearer and less burdensome for your loved ones.

Generally speaking, Missouri recognizes a written will signed by the person making the will (the testator), witnessed by two individuals, and properly executed according to state law. Witnesses are typically expected to be disinterested parties rather than beneficiaries of the will.

A well-prepared will helps ensure that your wishes are known and that your assets are distributed according to your intentions rather than solely under the default provisions of state law.

Self-Proving Affidavits

Many wills include a self-proving affidavit, either as part of the will itself or as a separate document. This affidavit typically states that you are signing the document willingly, that you are of legal age, and that you are of sound mind and judgment. It also affirms that the witnesses observed the signing of the document.

Including a self-proving affidavit can simplify the probate process by providing additional evidence of the will's authenticity.

Trusts

A trust is a legal arrangement that allows assets to be held and distributed according to instructions you establish during your lifetime. In many situations, trusts can require less court involvement after death than a will.

Trusts can also provide flexibility in how assets are distributed. They may name multiple beneficiaries and can include primary and secondary beneficiaries. For example, a nonprofit organization could be designated as the primary beneficiary, while another individual or organization could be named as a contingent beneficiary if the nonprofit no longer exists.

Because trusts vary significantly in structure and purpose, consulting a qualified attorney is important when considering this option.

Memorial Gifts

Some individuals prefer to leave their estate entirely to family members while still honoring causes that are meaningful to them. One way they accomplish this is by requesting memorial gifts be made to Fair Haven in lieu of flowers or other remembrances.

When memorial donations are received, we send an acknowledgment to the family informing them who made a gift in memory of their loved one. The amount donated, however, remains confidential. A list of memorial gifts is often included in our newsletter as a way of honoring those remembered.

The Importance of Having a Plan

Several years ago, I worked with an attorney regarding a will that had been written on a simple piece of notebook paper. The individual had listed his possessions and had written beside each item the name of the person he wanted to receive it. Two witnesses had signed the document. There was no formal legal language and no notarization, yet the court ultimately accepted the document as expressing his wishes.

His entire estate may not have been worth more than a few thousand dollars, but it represented a lifetime of work and possessions. More importantly, it clearly communicated his intentions.

I always encourage people to document their wishes, even if they have not completed a formal estate plan. Doing so can reduce confusion, ease family burdens, and help ensure that assets are distributed according to the owner's desires.

Without a will, state law generally determines how assets are distributed. While a surviving spouse often receives a significant portion of an estate, circumstances such as remarriage, blended families, and other factors can complicate matters. A properly prepared estate plan allows your wishes to guide those decisions.

Thank You

We are deeply grateful for your continued support of Fair Haven and the children we serve. The work we do is only possible because of generous people who believe in our mission.

Whether you support us through monthly giving, a memorial gift, a bequest in your will, or a trust designation, every contribution helps provide care, stability, and hope for the children who call Fair Haven home.

Thank you for considering Fair Haven as part of your legacy and for helping ensure that this ministry continues to serve children for years to come.

Please note: The information provided here is intended for general educational purposes only and should not be considered legal advice. Fair Haven does not provide legal services. Before making decisions regarding wills, trusts, or estate planning, please consult with a licensed attorney or qualified estate planning professional.

HOUSEPARENTS NEEDED

Life seems to make changes in different folks' situations and so, we find ourselves in need of 2 new sets of houseparents. This work comes with a competitive salary, fully paid health insurance premiums, 6-bedroom home, 12-passenger van, and we are able to hire husband and wife teams. The husband is also welcome to work off-campus instead of working for Fair Haven if that situation is better for your family.

Being a houseparent can be difficult work, but it can also be just as rewarding. Many of these children just need someone to care for them, make them meals, shuttle them to and from school, pray with them, and occasionally, be a shoulder to cry on. If you think you could do this job, then you're probably right. Some of the most unlikely couples, make the greatest houseparents.

If you think maybe you'd like a job change this year, give us a call; you might be just what we're looking for, AND you might be just what these kiddos need!.

2026: ANOTHER YEAR TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE BY Brian York

It all began in 1964, and now, 62 years later, Fair Haven Children's Home continues to be a place of hope, healing, and belonging. Over the past six decades, countless children have walked through our doors, and each one has left a lasting imprint on our hearts. We hope that, in some small way, we have left a lasting impression on theirs as well.

Today, we are blessed with an incredible group of young people who are learning to enjoy life, build confidence, and find peace in the world around them. Many have faced challenges that most people will never fully understand, yet their resilience shines through every day. Helping children discover joy, security, and hope for the future remains at the heart of everything we do.

The Holidays Are Different Here

One Thanksgiving, my wife and I invited a group of young ladies from our home to celebrate with our extended family. For them, the holiday meal itself was surprising. They couldn't understand why we needed so much food or why everyone seemed so excited about gathering together.

But as grandparents, siblings, cousins, and friends filled the house, they began to realize they were witnessing something different. Perhaps the most surprising thing of all was seeing so many family members under one roof, genuinely enjoying each other's company. There was no fighting, no chaos, no turmoil. Instead, there was laughter, conversation, and the simple joy of being together.

For many of us, these moments may seem ordinary. For these young ladies, they were anything but. They were witnessing healthy family relationships in a way they never had before.

Christmas Is Especially Different Here

When Christmas arrived that same year, those young ladies still weren't quite sure what to expect. We had told them they would receive gifts, but the idea seemed almost too good to believe.

They had arrived at Fair Haven the previous January, and we later learned that the Christmas before, they had gone outside on Christmas Eve, gathered rocks, wrapped them in scarves, and placed them under a tree so they would have something to open on Christmas morning.

That story broke our hearts.

We knew this Christmas would be different.

On Christmas morning, they raced down the hallway and turned the corner into our living room. Then they stopped. In front of them were stacks of gifts lovingly chosen just for them. With six children in the house and presents surrounding the tree, you could hardly see it.

The wonder on their faces is something I will never forget.

While that Christmas took place many years ago, the same spirit continues on our campus every year. When we send out Christmas wish lists, supporters and friends of Fair Haven consistently respond with incredible generosity. Time and again, they go above and beyond to ensure every child experiences the joy, excitement, and love that Christmas morning should bring.

To each of you who gives, prays, and supports our children, thank you. You help create memories that last a lifetime.

God's Blessings Are Different Here

One of the greatest blessings of serving at Fair Haven is having the opportunity to witness life's special moments through the eyes of a child. We have celebrated first bicycle rides, watched little ones take their first steps, cheered at graduations, and rejoiced as children discovered talents and dreams they never knew they had. We see courage where others see obstacles. We see growth where others once saw uncertainty. Every day reminds us that God's work often happens in quiet moments, through caring relationships, patient guidance, and the generosity of people who believe every child matters.

As we reflect on another wonderful year, our hearts are filled with gratitude. Thank you for being part of the Fair Haven family. Your prayers, encouragement, and support help create a place where children can heal, grow, and discover the bright future God has planned for them.

Together, we are making a difference, one child at a time.

THANK YOU TO ARNOLD AND PACIFIC

Volunteer groups are a tremendous blessing to our campus, and this year we were fortunate to welcome two dedicated teams whose impact will be felt for years to come.

Group from Pacific Church of Christ

The Pacific Church of Christ from Pacific, Missouri, spent several days with us helping prepare for our annual Benefit Auction. From sorting and organizing auction items to assisting guests on auction day and helping load purchases into vehicles, they played an important role in making the event run smoothly. Their service didn't stop there. They also tackled a variety of cleaning and maintenance projects across campus, leaving our facilities in great shape.

Shortly after the auction, a group from the Arnold Church of Christ in Arnold, Missouri, arrived ready to take on a different set of challenges. They generously devoted their time and talents to rebuilding one of our storage sheds and renovating our multi-purpose room. Both projects required significant effort and skill, and they completed them with exceptional craftsmanship and enthusiasm.

We are deeply grateful for the dedication, hard work, and servant hearts demonstrated by both groups. Thanks in part to the support of volunteers like these, our Benefit Auction was a tremendous success, raising more than $31,000 to support the children in our care. We also gained a beautifully refreshed multi-purpose room and a brand-new storage shed.

Group from Arnold Church of Christ

Projects of this size could have taken our staff months to complete, but through the generosity and commitment of these volunteers, they were accomplished in just a matter of days. Their willingness to serve has made a lasting difference, and we extend our heartfelt thanks to everyone who gave their time and energy to help further the mission of Fair Haven.
